

What's So Special About Christianity?

All World Views Are Not Created Equally

Each and every world view takes a position regarding Eternity. Even those who don't believe in God, still take a position about heaven. No belief is, in fact a position of belief in itself. Atheists, therefore, hold a belief system of their own; a system in which they have decided for themselves the nature of eternity.

1 If you're an Atheist

You deny that there is a God, have no belief in supernatural phenomena, and, (therefore), no belief in an afterlife.

All the world's religious belief systems, on the other hand, believe that humans have the ability to work their way into God's presence through some set of good behaviors that they perform. Regardless of religious system, all proclaim a similar truth: you, as a simple human can control your eternal destiny:

2 If you're a Jew

You obey the Ten Commandments

3 If you're Muslim

You obey the Five Pillars of Faith

4 If you're a Buddhist

You obey the implications of the Four Noble Truths and the Eight-fold Path

5 If you're a Baha'i

You must keep the Baha'i Law

6 If you're a Hindu

You must perform good deeds (Karma Yoga), work to attain a state of consciousness in meditation (Jnana Yoga), or perform acts of worship, temple rituals, and pilgrimages (Bhakti Yoga)

7 If you're a Jehovah's Witness

You must perform good works that fulfill God's will

8 If you're a Scientologist

You must work toward spiritual enlightenment and an attainment of brotherhood with the universe

9 If you're a Mormon

You obey the Ten Commandments of Judaism, every commandment of Jesus, and the teachings of all the Mormon Prophets!

And All of These Systems Are Fatally Flawed

Notice a similarity here? All these worldviews are dependant on the thoughts or works of men. You either think you are smart enough to explain it all (Atheism), or think you can somehow unite yourself to God through your own good works (all religious beliefs). We want you to be convinced that orthodox Christianity stands alone, in isolation, proclaiming the divine reality of GRACE (the undeserved free gift of salvation):

If you're a Christian

You are convinced that God is too powerful to be impressed with good deeds and that there is nothing you can do as a mere mortal to earn your way to heaven. Amazingly, God simply offers something that he has already done for you.

The One Left Standing

If there truly is a God powerful enough to create everything we see, then this God is certainly powerful enough to bring us home. A powerful God is not impressed with the works of men. A powerful God does not need our help. A powerful God is fully able to get the job done on His Own. Happily, there is one faith system that reflects these truths about the nature of God. There is only one ancient understanding of God that recognizes the fact that God alone is the only being powerful enough to save you. That ancient set of beliefs is called Christianity, and it is rooted in verifiable history.

Don't Settle For a Poor Copy

If I placed the true Mona Lisa painting in a room along with copies that I painted myself, you would notice two things. First, you would notice that there is only one true Mona Lisa, and all the rest of the paintings would differ from the original (even though they might share common characteristics as copies). You would know the true painting; it would stand out from the rest. It would have the property of "singularity" which would mark it as true.

The second thing you would notice is the fact that all the other paintings would be the obviously imperfect work of someone who is far less gifted than the inspired artist. One painting in the room would reflect the nature of a gifted artisan and creator, the rest would reflect the nature of an ordinary man.

Be Convinced

You can be convinced that orthodox Christianity stands alone, in singularity, proclaiming the divine notion of GRACE (the undeserved free gift of salvation). All other belief systems share a common logical flaw: they have no true understanding of this free gift. That's because only one notion of salvation comes from God. That's why it has such a radically different concept. But doesn't it make sense that God's truth would identify Him as the only source of salvation, while the hopeless desire of men through the ages would argue that we can somehow save ourselves? One truth comes from God, while ALL the others come from men
